Israeli Moves Troops Toward Egypt Border

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO (AP) — Heavy movement of Israeli troops to the Egyptian frontier in the Negev was reported in Cairo today.

Press reports here said Israeli troops were moving southward in the Beersheba region to counter Egyptian troop concentrations in the Sinai Peninsula — scene of Israel's big drive toward the Suez Canal in 1956.

The Egyptian movements were announced earlier this week following the eruption of fighting on the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

There were no reports of further frontier incidents by noon today.

The Cairo press said, however, that the Israelis are continuing a military buildup near the demilitarized zone, southeast of the Sea of Galilee.

"This indicates she intends to pursue her attempts to occupy Tawafik village, which the Israelis virtually wiped out in an attack last Monday," the newspaper Al-Ahram reported.

Maj. Gen. Gamal Faisal, commander of the army based in Syria, told reporters "We are in a state of readiness all along the front."

Should trouble break out on the frontiers of either Syria or Egypt, Israel automatically faces a two-front war since Syria and Egypt are now one country and the army is under a single command.

At Ahram reported the United Arab Republic told United Nations officials it is prepared to use force if necessary "to compel Israel to respect U.N. resolutions and stop her attacks on Arabs living in the demilitarized zone."

Note Informs Police of Fatal Shooting

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — "I would like to speak to you about the accidental killing of my aunt. I've got to tell it. It's about to drive me crazy."

That note, sent from a West Memphis jail cell yesterday by William J. Morgan, 23, led to the discovery at Helena of the body of Mrs. Nell Morgan Lanier, 50, who had been shot in the head.

Morgan was transferred from West Memphis, where he had been arrested on a drunk driving charge, to Helena for investigation of the fatal shooting.

Mrs. Lanier's body was found in a beached houseboat owned by Morgan's father, Buck Morgan. She had been living there recently.

Young Morgan said he went to the home to get his grandfather's .32 caliber pistol so he could pawn it. He told officers he and Mrs. Lanier argued about the pistol and that he fired a shot at her "but didn't intend to kill her."

After driving to West Memphis in Mrs. Lanier's car, he pawned the pistol for $10, then went drinking in Memphis. He said he decided to return to Helena and was on his way when he was arrested in West Memphis.

Morgan, jailed about 1:45 a.m. yesterday, sent the note to West Memphis police about 2 p.m. They notified Helena police about 2:30, after talking with Morgan, and the body was found propped up among boxes in a storage area.

Police said Mrs. Lanier had been shot in the back of the head while sitting on a sofa and the body had been dragged to the storeroom.

Mrs. Lanier, a beauty shop operator, moved into the houseboat after her combination shop and apartment was sold. The residence was described as resembling a 24-foot house trailer.

The floats have been removed and the houseboat set permanently on the Mississippi River bank inside the Helena levee.

The elder Morgan, an electrician, has been working and living at Wynne.

Sen. Harvey Seeks Re-Nomination

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Sen. Robert Harvey of Swiftton today filed for re-nomination in the summer Democratic primary.

Harvey seeks his second term as senator from the 18th District, which includes the counties of Jackson, Independence and Izard.

He is the author of the controversial 1959 law which set up a quota at the University Medical Center here.

Help Promised to Local Airman

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The wife of a Texarkana man missing on an airplane trip from Memphis to Little Rock got a promise of help from Gov. Orval E. Faubus today.

Faubus' aides said the governor telegraphed Mrs. Rufus Galloway that all available state agencies would take part in a search for her husband as soon as weather permitted.

Mrs. Galloway had appealed to the governor for help in organizing a search.

The couple has two children.

Committee Starts Trim of Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today started fulfilling the promise of its leaders to hold down the federal payroll next year.

In the first 1960 money bill, it refused to finance 869 of the 1,070 new jobs requested for the Commerce Department for the fiscal year starting July 1. At the same time, it cut $39,092,763 from the $709,615,000 in new funds President Eisenhower asked for the department and related agencies.

Shortly after the President sent his annual budget to Congress last month, Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) and Rep. John Taber (R-N.Y.), senior minority member, complained of proposals to increase federal personnel.

Taber said an estimated 40,000 of the proposed 42,500 new jobs weren't necessary and joined Cannon in calling for an over-all appropriation cut of at least two billion dollars.

Heaviest hit by the committee's action was the Weather Bureau, which requested money for 200 new positions, most of them for proposed new aviation services.

The committee refused to approve the jobs or funds for the new services. It said many aspects of the rapidly expanding aviation weather services "have yet to be resolved."

Billion Asked for Military Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today asked Congress to authorize spending $1,034,161,000 on new military construction projects throughout the world.

It sent to Congress a proposed bill which also would call for authorization of another $107,764,000 in spending on previously approved projects to meet increased needs.

The bill also will request congressional approval for the construction of 3,788 family housing units at military bases in the United States and overseas.

New construction projects proposed in the bill include 366 installations in the 50 states and the District of Columbia, plus other work in the Caribbean, European areas, the Pacific Islands, Bermuda, Canada, Japan and Korea.

The bill would merely authorize the construction. Additional legislation would be needed to provide construction money.

The dollar value of the proposed projects by services follows: Army, $158,406,000; Navy, $127,831,000; Air Force, $675,796,000; Army National Guard, $12,168,000; Naval and Marine Corps, $8,450,000; Air National Guard, $7,226,000; Air Force Reserve, $1,590,000; and Department of Defense, $20,000,000.

High School Students Can Win $1,000 by Helping State's Physically Handicapped

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Are there any 11th or 12th grade high school students in or around Hope who would like to win $1,000?

The governor's committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped is sponsoring an essay contest in high schools over the state, and the possibility of winning $1,000 should make high school juniors and seniors a little curious or industrious.

"Jobs for the Handicapped — Passport to Dignity" is the subject title of the essays. This is a National Essay Contest with all first place, State and Territorial winners going to Washington, D. C., with transportation and expenses paid. For the first time the CIO-AFL is making the trip possible.

The national prizes are 1st, $1,000; 2nd, $400; 3rd, $300; 4th, $270 and 5th, $100. Two years ago Nelda Clark of Blewins received honorable mention for her essay entry. Among those entering the contest last year was Genia Norvell of Guernsey.

Essays should be less than 1,200 words, typed double spaced on 8 1/2 x 11 white paper. Students name, home and school addresses and English teacher's signature must be on the stapled essay cover sheet only. The essay must be original in all respects. Short quotes may be included if exact source is given in a footnote reference. The student's and teacher's signatures on the cover sheet attest to the originality of the composition. No prize will be awarded if plagiarism is detected.

So far, so good. But where can you get information to write what might be a prize-winning essay? Well, the Employment Security Division office could give you a lot of information. So could the Veterans' Administration, public and private groups, public libraries, the handicapped themselves, and employers.

Major credit will be given for significance of content, originality, impact, organization, clarity of expression and neatness. Arkansas judges include members of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

Questions must come to your minds regarding the physically handicapped and their role in the working world today. At the questions appear, express them verbally and then seek the answers. Put the results on paper according to the contest rules, and you might be one of the prize winners.

The entry deadline is March 1, 1960.

Check the contest rules with the local Employment Security Division office. There you can also learn the mailing address for your entry.

Good luck!

Department Store Sales About Same

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Department store sales in the 3th Federal Reserve District the week ended Jan. 30 were about the same as the comparable week last year, the Federal Reserve bank of St. Louis reported today.

Average total sales for the district increased one per cent that week from the corresponding period of a year ago. Sales in the Memphis area and stores in seven smaller districts declined by two per cent.

The biggest rise was of four per cent in the Louisville area. Sales in St. Louis and Little Rock increased one per cent.

Sales in the district for the four weeks ending Jan. 30 were up seven per cent from those of the same time one year ago.

Reds Ready to Revive Lend Lease Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it is ready at any time to resume talks on settlement of its lend-lease debt "with simultaneous normalization of economic relations" with the United States.

This was a reiteration of the Soviet stand that broke down negotiations to clean up its World War II debt to this country.

Soviet-American lend-lease talks collapsed eight days ago when American officials refused to consider the Soviet demand that a big loan and a trade agreement be tied to a settlement.

In a statement, the Soviet Embassy said today that Premier Nikita Khrushchev had pointed out in his talks with President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., last fall "that the substance of the question of a lend-lease settlement lies in the removal by the United States of the discriminatory restrictions on trade with the U.S.S.R. and in the permission to the American businessmen to trade unrestrictedly with the Soviet Union."

The embassy statement indirectly accused the United States of offering Britain and other allies better terms, including a loan, than have been offered the Soviet Union to settle lend-lease accounts.

During World War II, the United States sent about 11 billion dollars worth of goods to the Soviet Union.

It has sought repayment only for materials such as factory machinery — which had a useful civilian purpose in peacetime.

The United States demanded 80 million dollars after the war to close the lend-lease books.

In the talks that collapsed Jan. 27, the Soviets never repeated this offer. Soviet negotiators demanded that any settlement simultaneously cover: A long-term credit at acceptable interest rates and a trade agreement, giving Soviet products the benefit of the same lower tariff rates other countries enjoy on the American market. These tariffs were raised for Russia in 1951 after the Korean War.

Accident Causes Loss of a Leg

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — Billy Smith, whose right leg was lost but torn off in an industrial accident July 3, finally has lost it. Physicians at Eden Hospital reported that "under ordinary circumstances the dangling leg would have been amputated with a snap of the scissors."

Because of the 26-year-old's good condition, they sewed it back together and for months believed they had a chance to save it.

But then a deep infection developed in the bone and knee joint and the main nerve was no longer repairable. It was amputated Wednesday night.

Describes Soviet Threat Very Grave Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The Air Force research chief said today the Soviet threat during the missile age will be the gravest the United States has ever known."

But Lt. Gen. Bernard L. Schriever said he believes peace can be maintained if the United States makes quick and full utilization of the opportunities provided for military operations in space.

Schriever is head of the Air Research and Development Command.

In testimony before the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, he said the Soviet military threat is heightened by the U.S. policy of nonaggression which concedes the initiative to the Soviet Union.

He strongly assailed any suggestion that the United States consider preventive war as a defense measure.

"I would hate to see America initiate a war that neither side would win," he said.

Schriever said the key requirement in defending against a missile attack are adequate warning time and a strong retaliatory position. Solutions to both problems, he said, can be found in the development of space vehicles.

Schriever's testimony added to the mounting pile of advice — some of it conflicting — that Congress has been getting in the current running debate over this country's military position.

There has been no indication the Eisenhower administration has been influenced to change any of its planning as a result of criticism in Congress and elsewhere.

From Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer there was a report Thursday that much of the special additional funds over by Congress to provide new equipment for American soldiers has been tied up by the Budget Bureau or used to help allies.

Pressure on Welfare Client Told

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State officials disclosed today that an effort was made in northeast Arkansas recently to pressure welfare clients into spending their scheduled 5 payment raises on health and accident insurance.

Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs said he got a complaint about the incident, which happened in the Strawberry community near Walnut Ridge.

Combs turned the complaint over to the Welfare Department.

Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams started an investigation. He said Mrs. Winnie Cato of Walnut Ridge, the Lawrence County welfare director, told him she had heard of the incident.

Combs said an insurance agent reportedly canvassed welfare clients in Strawberry and told them the newly announced $1 increase in their monthly checks was insurance for accident and health insurance. The commissioner said the agent, whose name was not known, represented himself as being from the Welfare Department.

Adams said he instructed Mrs. Cato to report her information on the matter to the Lawrence County sheriff's office.

The welfare chief said the raises were not for any specific purpose. He said it was granted in order to permit clients to buy more food but they will not be told how to spend it.

Train Hits, Kills 14-Year-Old Girl

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — A speeding passenger train struck and fatally injured a 14-year-old girl trying to dash across the tracks at a downtown crossing last night.

Dottie Sue Sparlock, returning from a basketball game with several other teenagers, was struck and killed by the triple truck system.

The engineer of the southbound train tried to brake as he saw Dottie Sue and the other children running across the tracks but was unable to halt the train in time.

Sheriff D. S. Foley said warning lights were flashing and signal bells were operating as the train roared through Walnut Ridge, where no stop was scheduled.

The girl was hit just a few yards from the police station. Foley was on duty and a tractor-trailer truck was on U.S. Highway 67 about four miles south of here.

Garland Continues Collector's Probe

The full jury convened yesterday and its first order of business was receiving reports from its law enforcement committee which probed the collector's office earlier this week.

Two witnesses heard by the full jury yesterday were employees in the office. They were Henry Murphy, a deputy collector, and Curtis Bell, a part-time worker.

Owen testified before the law enforcement committee Wednesday but was not called before the full jury yesterday.

Testimony given before grand juries is not made public.

Deadline to Shred Cotton Delayed

Because of unfavorable weather conditions during the month of January the Arkansas State Plant Board has announced changes in the deadline for cotton stalk destruction in the pink bollworm control program.

In such cases where bad weather prevented following these regulations, the Plant Board will not penalize the grower, provided that the grower completes stalk destruction in a satisfactory manner at the earliest possible time that weather permits. Most growers can complete their harvest and destroy their cotton stalks within a week to 10 days if favorable weather prevails.

A good job has been done thus far toward compliance with the regulations, Plant Board officials said. They expressed a desire that owners continue to put forth every effort to get stalks turned under as soon as possible.

The original stalk destruction regulations are:

1. Turn cotton stalks under by Jan. 31.

2. Shred stalks with an approved vertical flail-type shredder by Jan. 31 and turn stalks under by May 1. In order to use a vertical flail-type shredder, a form must be sent in to the State Plant Board.

3. An owner may destroy cotton in the field by grazing with livestock. Applications are also needed from the State Plant Board to use this method.

Fields will be checked soon after Feb. 5 and if it does not meet the approval of the inspector, the farmer has 40 days to turn under the stalks or used an approved vertical flail-type shredder by Feb. 15 and turn under residue by May 1.

Tobaccomen to Eliminate Health Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today disclosed that the tobacco industry has agreed to stop making health claims in cigarette advertising.

Chairman Earl W. Kintner told the Advertising Federation of America that, with FTC prodding, the industry voluntarily will abandon claims that their products "reduce tars and nicotine."

"This is a landmark example of industry and government cooperation in solving a pressing problem," Kintner said.

He said the industry's advertising will be given a new look "as soon as it becomes mechanically possible." He added that this is no small feat for an industry that spends 100 million dollars a year on advertising.

Kintner said individual claims for competing cigarettes "were confusing to the public and possibly misleading in view of the absence of a satisfactory uniform testing method and proof of advantage to the smoker."

In the past, the FTC has permitted tar, nicotine and health claims if some proof had been established by an independent research laboratory.

Now it takes the position that such claims can only be made if the advertiser offers physiological proof of benefits to the health of the smokers.

Collision Fatal to Insurance Man

Kennedy Sees Early Choice at Convention

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts predicted today the Democratic National Convention will reach a "somewhat early" decision on a presidential nominee.

The senator, campaigning for the nomination, was asked if he thought the delegates would decide on the first or second ballot in the July session in Los Angeles.

"I think the convention will reach a decision in not too many ballots," he replied.

Kennedy, who has entered or plans to enter seven state primaries, including that of Indiana, renewed his challenge to other aspirants to make a right of it.

"No candidate should expect to be nominated if he won't run" in primaries, Kennedy said.

Indiana's 34 convention votes are bound by law to go to the primary winner on the first ballot.

Kennedy, who started the day's stamping before a group of the party's women members of the party called for a federal government "war in the spirit of clarity."

Missing Bus Found, All Students Safe

DALHART, Tex. (AP) — A weary sheriff Thursday found five children and a bus driver, marooned by a flood high snow drifts, warm and well fed in a ranch home.

Sheriff R. C. Johnson of Dalhart and rescue workers today spent the night and half the day hunting for the missing group. They were trapped by the high snow drifts in this western and vast Panhandle country of Texas.

The bus driver, Sam Warden, 66, was taking 10 children to their rural homes Wednesday afternoon when he realized the situation was too heavy for him to complete the trip. He drove a quarter of a mile off his route to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter, 15 miles from Dalhart.

The children were Phyllis Lamm, Jimmy Elcker, and Linda Sammy and Susie Singleton. Warden was unable to call authorities because there was no phone at the ranch.

DeGaulle Gives Promotions to His Backers

Soustelle, once touted as the strong man of De Gaulle's supporters, was ousted from the post of minister of the Sahara, atomic energy and overseas possessions because of his identification with the Algerians insurgents who unsuccessfully defied De Gaulle last week.

Another casualty was Communist Minister Bernard Cornil-Contille, who had wanted to compromise with the rebellious French settlers.

A brief announcement from the President's press office said that De Gaulle had approved the firing of Soustelle and Cornil-Contille.

Defense Minister Pierre Cullenat was demoted to minister delegate charged with atomic research, part of Soustelle's former duties. He had been severely criticized because the army let the settlers' revolt in Algiers drag on for eight days instead of nipping it at the start.

Michel Maurice-Bokanowski, long a Gaullist, and secretary of state at the Interior Ministry, was moved up to head the Communications Ministry.

Information Minister Roger Frey was promoted to a minister delegate. His duties were not immediately announced, but it was believed he would replace Robert Lecourt in charge of relations with the French Community. Lecourt becomes a minister of state for relations with Parliament, the Sahara and overseas departments and territories, the latter being part of Soustelle's former province.

Newcomers to the Cabinet included Pierre Messmer, career civil servant and former high commissioner of French West Africa, named defense minister; Louis Terrenoire, head of the Gaullist party, the Union for the New Republic, named information minister; and Jean Poyer, UNR member of the National Assembly, named secretary of state for relations with the French Community.

Secy. Gates Has Become Storm Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the two months he has been secretary of defense, Thomas S. Gates Jr. has become the center of a political storm.

How much of the storm is generated by politics in a presidential election year and how much represents genuine concern over the administration's defense policies is hard to determine.

Gates was a predictable target for Democratic critics when he went before House and Senate committees to defend President Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

At first Gates appeared to be doing a good selling job. After he and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, described the defense picture to the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, Chairman George Mahon (D-Tex.) exclaimed: "This is the most enthusiastic and rosy and reassuring presentation that we have ever had."

But Gates also ran into some doubters, among them Sens. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) and Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), who aspire to the Democratic presidential nomination.

His critics asked how the outlook could be so rosy when the Soviets have or will have an admitted superiority in long-range missiles and space exploration, larger armed forces, and more submarines — although not more atomic-powered subs.

Gates gave the critics a handle with which to pick up the issue: He said intelligence estimates of Soviet strength now are based on "what we believe he (Russia) probably will do, not what he is capable of doing."

To Symington, this represented juggling U.S. intelligence reports to give a more favorable picture. Gates and President Eisenhower have heatedly denied any juggling.

Gates brings to his tough job a background of wealth, Navy combat service in World War II, and experience as secretary of the Navy. He has a reputation for firmness and efficiency.

Born April 10, 1906 in Germantown, Pa., Gates comes from a family of Philadelphia investment bankers. In World War II he was decorated for combat duty in the

He was called to Washington in 1933 to be under secretary of the Navy, and in 1937 moved up to the secretaryship.

He had resigned and was preparing to return to his life as a Philadelphia banker last year when Deputy Undersecretary of Defense Donald Quarles died. Quarles had been slated to become secretary of defense upon the long-predicted resignation of Ned H. McElroy. An then experienced man was needed to take McElroy's place and Gates was persuaded to stay.

Gates is married to the former Millicent Ann Brengle. The Gateses have three daughters and five grandchildren. An only son, Thomas S. Gates III, was killed in a fire at a Canadian ski lodge several years ago while

CHAPTER XXIII

It was somewhat of a battle before it ended. There were several of them, and only Zacharias, Wheelwright and I. But the space was narrow, I heard Zach, bel low and then I was busy. My fists whacked against bone, and fists struck at me. Out of the corner of my eye I saw Zach lift the pickpocket in his mighty arms and hurl him at his companions. A man tried to grasp my legs, but I kicked him in the chest and that was all for him. They gave back and we moved forward, and presently what was left of them trailed tail and ran. But four or five remained prone or writhing in agony. I thrust one of the laster to his feet and shook him.

"Now," I demanded, "what's the meaning of this?"

"I died with my back to you," the man whined. "Weeks is dead, and you done it."

"What?" I demanded, shaking the fellow viciously. "do you think I killed him?"

"Stand to reason," the man whimpered. "I killed the Duke, didn't ya? In your barn. Same way. Ye was moppin' Weeks out of town. Mebbey he didn't skeedaddle quick enough."

I tossed the creature to the back. "What's he doin' call the police," I said to Zacharias Wheelwright.

"What for?" Zach demanded. "Hebber he's the one to walk away by themselves. I don't favor doin' with the police."

Lassie spoke then, almost for the first time since we came aboard, and there was something in her eyes I never seen before. "Goodness gracious," she exclaimed in a little girl's voice. "but you're a dandy fighter!"

We went back down into the warmth of the cabin and Maw Wheelwright replenished our cups. "But who killed Mr. Weeks? And when?" I asked Maw.

"Somebody," Maw replied. "That prefers fingers to weapons."

"The same one," Lassie added, "who throttled the Duke."

I was uncomfortable about the whole business, that it had happened while Lassie was there to be a part of it. It was no place for a girl.

At 10:30 on that beautiful morning the signal was given and the beneficiaries of the feast were turned loose to rush in a body upon the great pile of bread and roast meat. It was nearly a riot and it continued until mid-afternoon, when the throng dwindled and only the debris of the sensational barbecue remained to be cleaned up and disposed of.

Madam Janeway's name was on every tongue, either in praise and friendship, or in jealousy and malice. But to me, the strangest phenomenon of the day was the invisibility of the beneficiaries. She was not present.

When half the day had elapsed without her appearance I felt it my duty to look the reason out. So I withdrew from the great crowd and hastened to her home across the street from Lassie's and my own. It was unmarked. I pounded on the side door to no avail, nor did I have better fortune at the kitchen door. From inside came neither sound nor movement. Doors and windows were securely locked in the barn the handsome team of horses trumpeted and munched in their stalls. The coachman snored in his room. I awakened him.

$40,000 Donation to Subiaco College

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Donation of $40,000 to Subiaco Academy at Subiaco to help finance a guest retreat house was announced here last night by George Courty, a Miami, Fla., businessman.

Courty told of the gift at a dinner held in his honor here. He said the money would pay about one-tenth of the cost of the guest house.

Subiaco, a Catholic prep school, is operated by the Benedictine Order. Courty attended there in his youth.

Push Drive to Kill Blackbirds, Starling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. E. C. Gathings (D-Ark) and a group of House members are pushing a drive to cut down the country's blackbird and starling population.

The Gathings group recently asked a House Appropriations Subcommittee to approve outlay of $150,000 to finance research into the extent of crop damage caused by the birds. This money would be in addition to the $95,000 President Eisenhower asked for research on control of destructive birds.

Gathings said a survey he made recently showed that areas in 28 states suffered damage running into millions of dollars.

He looked up at me with sleep-beamed eyes. "Dunno, Mr. Apple-gate," he said. "Hain't seed hide nor hair of any of 'em all day."

"Where is everybody?" I demanded. "Where is Madam?"

Mr. David Hannum, one of the syndicate which owned the Cardiff Giant, came into my office with a gentleman whom I never had seen before, but who was introduced to me as Colonel Wood, a professional showman. This individual was to have charge of exhibiting the giant in various cities throughout the country. Both men were angry and disturbed.

"Orrin," Mr. Hannum said, "we want ye should git out an injunction agin P. T. Barnum."

"To stop him," I asked, "from doing what?"

"Exhibitin' an imitation of our giant," Mr. Hannum said. "I hear tell he's hired a sculptor to carve out a statue to be as like ourn as two peas, which he aims to exhibit in his museum on Broadway as the Cardiff Giant."

"Mr. Hannum," I said gravely, "I fear you will fall afoul of a legal maxim, sir."

"Such as," demanded the banker and horse trader.

"He who comes into a court of equity must come with clean hands," I said impressively.

Mr. Hannum examined his horny, callused paws and spat out at me under the peak of his cap. "Look to'able washed to me," he said.

"I was not referring to physical cleanliness, but to ethical cleanliness. I question," said I, "if the courts will entertain an action to compel Mr. Barnum to cease and desist from exhibiting an imitation of a humbug."

Mr. Hannum fixed me with his shrewd, beady eyes. "Supposin' our giant is a humbug," he said. "Which I don't admit. We had our first didn't we?"

"Mr. Hannum," I said in my most dignified manner, "it is well for a client to be absolutely truthful with his lawyer. Do you believe your giant to be a veritable petrified monster, a statue of great antiquity, or a fraud?"

His reply was characteristic. "Some say one way, some say another," he told me. "Now take Professor Alexander McWhorter — him that teaches in Yale College Divinity School."

"Yes?" I said.

"He claims," said Hannum, "that it's terrible ancient, and was wrought by them old Phoenicians. He claims the's a Bible-times inscription to be deciphered onto it. An' take Professor White, of Yale Medical School. What's he declare? He examined it with what he calls an achromatic glass, which sounds to be like a durned impressive tool. He states emphatically that the pores in the skin proves it's teetotal ancient. Also he says mebbey the's an inscription. Other impressive fellers say it's a petrified body that walked the earth before history started up."

"Very well," I said. "I will start an action. But not an action based upon the assumption that this carving is either petrified flesh or of great antiquity. But upon the grounds that it is the genuine Cardiff Giant and is entitled to that exclusive designation."

I had scant hopes of succeeding in my action brought against Mr. Barnum, but Hannum had a right to his day in court; so, as soon as papers could be prepared, I filed suit. By this time, the third week in an exceptionally cold December, the giant was shipped from Albany to New York and placed on exhibition there. Barnum, always alert, immediately advertised Hannum's giant was a fraud and that his giant was the genuine and original. Which, of course, whetted public interest and attracted large crowds of spectators.

Our families were dining together on the Sunday before Christmas when mother broke a silence, speaking to Mrs. Fox.

"I've been thinking," she said. "Madam Janeway will be glons

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Wabbles Courts Trouble

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was married eight years and had two sons when my marriage broke up. I remarried and am divorcing after seven years. This second marriage had me in a turmoil from the beginning. I stuck it out because I made my own bed, so I better lay in it. This husband is mean, resentful and disrespectful. My sons, teenagers now, are afraid of him. He calls me dirty names in front of them and strikes me! Now that he knows I want out, he suggests a marriage counselor. I am willing, but a skeptic. Since he threatened to take my life, should I trust him? — The Nervous One

Dear Nervous One: A man who threatens to kill you isn't to be trusted. Don't weaken!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 13 and quite mature for my age, yet I cannot talk to my mother about anything a girl my age would like to talk to their mothers about, such as lipstick, boys, and dates. My mother thinks it foolish to talk about such things. What should I do? — Betty

Dear Betty: Mothers aren't always right. If you and your mother can't communicate, look about for some other member of your family or an older friend, in whom to confide. If you don't find one, write to me.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 31-years old, married, with two children. My husband drinks and has trouble holding a job. I no longer love him and would on Christmas Day.

There was a silence — almost an appalled silence. Then Lassie said breathlessly, "But it's our day, our day!"

Our parents did not know. They did not know, as we did, that there was something peculiar about Madam and her relations with her servant, Oscar. In all Syracuse there was nobody besides Lassie and me who knew that all was not normal in that house across the street. What it was we did not know. But it was some unhappy thing, and we felt that the unhappy thing should not be permitted to intrude upon our happy intimacies.

Lassie was facing the window, and I saw her lean forward and look out into the street.

"Madam's sleigh," she said. "But she's not in it. Oscar's on the seat beside the coachman." And then: "It's stopping here." It was, indeed, stopping before the house, and Oscar climbed down with something in his big hands. He mounted the steps to the front door and rang the bell. The hired girl came from the kitchen to answer the ring, and presently came into the parlor with two envelopes in her hand. She handed one to Auntie Fox and the other to mother, who received them with lifted brows.

"I declare!" mother exclaimed and opened her envelope. Now we in Syracuse did not go in much for engraved invitations, but this was an engraved invitation, very expensive and stylish.

"What," asked my father testily, "do you expect about?"

"It's an invitation from Madam Janeway for Christmas Eve," mother said, emphasizing again, "Dinner and entertainment. The idea! Christmas Eve!"

New Racket Hits Welfare Clients

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Welfare officials today reported a new racket is being tried to cheat the promise of increased benefits at the University Medical Center. A J. Moss, assistant state welfare commissioner, said a young man tried to talk four Negro welfare clients at Humphrey with such a pledge. Moss said he got a report that the man called on the Negroes yesterday and told them that for $20 each he would see that they got additional benefits at the Little Rock medical facility. "None of them had $20," Moss said, "so he finally got down to $5. We knew that he got $5 from four different Negro welfare clients."

Moss said the incident was reported by Mrs. Virginia Wright, Jefferson County welfare director, and that the Jefferson County sheriff's office had been notified. The report followed earlier from Lawrence County which said an insurance agent tried to convince some clients at Strawberry, near Walnut Ridge, that forthcoming $5 welfare payment increases should go for health and accident insurance.

Field & Stream
Is Individually Not the Breed
By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor, Field & Stream

There seems to be an appreciable increase in the pet buying activity as the holiday season approaches.

People who want to buy dogs have very definite opinions as to what breed they wish in at least half the cases. On the other hand some haven't had a dog before and have two or three ideas as to what they'd like.

Some want a change of breed because of change in environment or taste, and some believe the breed they had before could be improved upon.

On the half that are dead set on a certain breed, most of them have had a successful experience with the breed. Having enjoyed a breed once, they feel that this is the best breed.

I certainly do not advocate changing merely for the sake of changing, but I wish to make the point that the quality of the individual is more important than the breed. There are good, bad breeds. A good individual of any one of a number of breeds will serve as well as a companion in most homes.

There are good crossbreeds called mongrels. Heinz dogs or what have you — that have sold many people on the idea that crossbreeds are better than purebreds. I'd rather live with a good crossbred than a poor purebred.

A pup or older dog of the desired breed is not available, a change of breed can certainly be interesting.

Time to Start Planning Your Tomato Crop

The time is rapidly approaching for making plans to start another tomato crop. County Agent Calvin Caldwell says. In doing so, you should plan to control damping-off and seed rot by a relatively new practice known as a fungicidal soil drench.

This practice is inexpensive and simple. The only materials needed are a sprinkler watering can or small hand sprayer, water, Captan 50, and a tablespoon. This practice is most effective when used in the first watering in both the hotbed flats and cold frame.

For those producers who may want to use this practice in their hotbeds, it should be used at the rate of one pound of 50 per cent Captan per 100 gallons of water.

Shell Not Seeking Re-election

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Pros. curator Terry Shell of Jonesboro said today he will not seek re-election to his Second Judicial District post in this summer's Democratic primary.

Shell, completing his third term, has been mentioned as a likely candidate against Chancellor Lee Ward in the race for the chancellor's post of the 12th District.

Asked about this, Shell told newsmen he had received "much encouragement to run." He said he was considering the matter.

Ward recently filed for re-nomination. No one else has filed. The district comprises Clay, Craighead, Cross, Crittenden, Greene, Mississippi and Poinsett counties.

NEW BOATS COME, GO — BUT LD DORY SAILS ON
By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating
Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After all the fancy new boats have been announced for this year, one favorite for 1960 still looks much as she did 100 years ago.

This is the dory, as American as the codfish she used to catch off the Grand Banks of the North Atlantic. And she still has a special seaworthy appeal that doesn't get out of date.

Her historian, dory designer John Gardener, reports that she was invented by Simon J. Lowell of Amesbury, Mass., shortly after the American Revolution. Cheap to build, she was rugged and capable of handling heavy hauls and rolling seas. Thwart seats could be removed and a number of boats nested on the deck of fishing schooners sailing out from Gloucester and Marblehead, Maine ports, and Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, and even across from Portugal. In the morning one or two fishermen would row each dory off from the mother ship, work their handline trawls all day and at evening they might head back with 1,000 pounds of fish aboard.

Today's dories have retained most of the family traits. Whereas and peapods. Swampscott, Amesbury, and Penobscot are names on the family tree that have produced the dory — skiffs and surf-dories of 1960. The high pinched transom has been lowered to allow the ubiquitous outboard motor to be clamped on, and new structural methods have made the craft lighter and easier to handle.

Over the years dories have served successfully in both commercial and pleasure boat rolls. Banks dories were later modified and used by lobster fishermen hauling their pots down East along the New England coast. Weekends the same commercial craft were sometimes rigged with manual and jib for sailboat races in the harbors north and south of Cape Cod. Smaller and lighter models proved fun to row until small motors began to replace oars as the means of propulsion for pleasure boating.

But for the fisherman today who ventures into rougher waters, the dory is still very hard to equal. And the Coast Guard knows she has no fears for launching through curling surf when handled by experienced Guardsmen on the oars.

The dory in lineage is truly an American product, and in performance has proven herself seaworthy and sound — a likely candidate for 100 more years of service for the pleasure boatman, or one tablespoon per gallon of water and apply one gallon over each 20 square feet of surface.

When using in the cold frame, increase the rate to two pounds per 100 gallons or two tablespoons per gallon and apply one gallon to 20 square feet. For added protection against damping-off in both the hot and cold frame, weekly spray or sprinkling with two tablespoons of the 50 per cent Captan per gallon of water should be used. The amount of solution to use here will vary, depending on the size of the plants. Only enough solution should be used to wet the foliage sufficiently that some run down the stems.

If this practice is properly applied and then a foliar through of the other disease control recommendations are made, little if any trouble from diseases should result.

This same practice may be applied to other vegetables such as pepper, eggplant, cabbage, etc. where damping off or seed rot is a problem.

Networks Plan Shows About Mr. Lincoln

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With Lincoln's birthday just ahead, the three major networks plan to spend some time during the next few days considering some phases of the Civil War president's life and death.

On Sunday CBS' "Small World" will discuss honest Abe in a three-concerned conversation among biographer Carl Sandburg, Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill) and British writer C. Northcote Parkinson, (6 p.m.). It will be what is described in the CBS lexicon as "a revised re-broadcast with additional material." That means that they've re-edited last year's show and are using some material they left out last time.

"The Day the World Wept," will be ABC's contribution Tuesday (10 p.m.). This will be a treatment of the "supernatural phenomena" surrounding the president's death. On Thursday evening (9 p.m.) NBC will re-broadcast its project 20 "Meet Mr. Lincoln" based on contemporary still pictures, posters and drawings.

The next seven days hold a number of other items of special interest, too.

Tonight, for example, Art Carney stars in three one act plays — "Three in One" on NBC (8-9:30), CBS' New York Philharmonic Young People's Concerts start their season Sunday at 1 p.m. and NBC's Sunday Showcase (8-9 p.m.) is Tony Webster's "After Hours," a light-hearted treatment of psychiatry.

"The Swinging Years"—America's big band era—will be the Tuesday Starline show (NBC, 11:30-12:30 p.m.) followed by Playhouse 90 (CBS, 9:30-11 p.m.) with "To the Sound of Trumpets," an original with an impressive cast including Dame Judith Anderson, Boris Karloff and Stephen Boyd.

"The American Cowboy," a musical comedy treatment of a familiar type will be CBS' Wednesday night (10-11 p.m.) special, while on Thursday there will be an hour-long revue (CBS, 10-11) with Jackie Cooper and Renee Jeanmaire.

Khrushchev Is Backed by Warsaw Group

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Warsaw Pact powers have lined up behind Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a showdown on the German problem at the East-West summit talks in May.

The eight-nation Communist alliance wound up a one-day conference Thursday night by threatening again to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany "and to solve on this basis the question of West Berlin as well."

The Soviet-led bloc backed the policies already laid down by Khrushchev — including the offer of a nonaggression pact with the North Atlantic alliance, the mutual disarmament, a ban on nuclear weapons and conversion of West Berlin into a "free city."

"Under present conditions a peace treaty can be signed only by both German states," said a communiqué. "We cannot agree that the solution to this question be delayed endlessly."

This can only encourage the militarist and revenge-seeking forces of West Germany. If efforts directed at signing a peace treaty with both German states will not meet support, and the solution to this problem still faces delay, then the states represented at this conference will have no way out but to sign, together with other states which will be ready for that, a peace treaty with the (East) German Democratic Republic, and on this basis to solve the problem of West Berlin as well."

Khrushchev signed for the Soviet Union as both head of the government and Communist Party Chairman. Both premiers and party leaders signed for the other countries — East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Albania.

Delegates from the four Asian Communist nations — Red China, Outer Mongolia, North Korea and North Viet Nam — looked on but did not sign the communiqué at a glittering ceremony in the Catharine Room of the Kremlin Palace.

Western diplomats suggested that secret decisions may have been reached which were not disclosed in the communiqué. They said it was unlikely that Khrushchev had brought party and government leaders from all over Europe and Asia to repeat formally what all had declared repeatedly before.

The communiqué echoed the call already made by the Soviet Premier for the West to follow the Soviet lead in cutting down armed forces.

The Soviet Union's allies in the pact announced no specific commitments toward reducing their own armed forces.

Looking forward to the spring summit conference in Paris, the communiqué expressed hope that it "will be a turning point in East-West relations."

While declaring that generally "there is a definite change for the better in the international atmosphere," there was no indication that Khrushchev is ready to make any major concessions in Paris.

PRAYER AND LIFE
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

I have offered some comments upon the extent to which Sunday has become so largely given over to sports, especially the championship games that bring together the thousands of sports workers and that give the eyes of other millions to their TV screens on the Sunday afternoons.

But a deeper aspect that calls for some reflection is in the association of football and prayer. In two instances newspapers reported that when the victorious players went to their dressing room instead of outbursts of hilarity they had a quiet session of prayer, ending in one case, at least, with the Lord's Prayer.

I suppose that the natural outburst of hilarious rejoicing probably followed, but the prayer session seems to me very significant.

Prayer AFTER a victory, or after any real triumph in sports or life, is a very good thing. It emphasizes a spirit of humility, instead of a too-self-congratulatory and arrogant spirit that might easily be the beginning of an ultimate loss. Victory as well as loss means a testing time. So prayer seems to me very fitting after victory.

I have noted, however, that some players have prayer BEFORE a contest, and here there might be at least a mild questioning concerning the nature and motive of the praying.

Prayer, and the prayerful spirit, might well have a very proper place before as well as after a game. But it depends upon the spirit of the praying. The tensions before important contests are said to be terrific. If prayer helps to induce a quiet spirit, to calm nerves and emotions, and helps put players in a proper mind it must be a very good thing.

But if prayer is a sort of talisman, or inspiring, advantage over opponents, it is a debasement of religion, and a very bad thing. I think that every sensible person would prefer to see a team of irreligious rough-necks, who will win, triumphing over a group lacking those essentials, but depending on some prayerful advantage.

And the important thing is that this applies to life as well as to sports. The most downright serious thing a person can do is to pray. One's prayer emphasizes more than anything else the nature and sincerity of one's religion.

I think the one great purpose of true prayer is to put ourselves on God's side, not to seek God on our side, or to ask for special favor. How could a God of love and justice show partisan favoritism?

Finch's Story of Shooting Near Climax

By DIAL TORGERSOON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The story Dr. R. Bernard Finch hopes will save his life today was near the point of crisis—where he tries to show his wife's death was not murder but mishap.

His attorney already has outlined the defense. And the crew-cut doctor has detailed his flight into adultery from a marriage frustrated by frigidity. But he had still to give his own version of how Barbara Jean Finch was shot to death outside their luxurious suburban home last July 18.

The 42-year-old physician, trying to counter the state's accusations, has said the gun that killed his wife was one she drew herself. And he has denied the state's charge that he hired a man to kill her, claiming instead that the man was paid to get evidence that could be used against her in her divorce suit.

Several women jurors couldn't keep from frowning Thursday when the physician testified that

Louisiana Tornado Leaves 3 Injured

THIBODAUX, La. (AP)—Three persons were injured, one critically, when a tornado, hidden in a heavy downpour, struck a plantation area and demolished nine laborers' cottages.

Five year old Barbara Benoit received internal injuries when the family dwelling was wrecked Wednesday. Her mother, 32, who was cooking supper at the time the tornado hit, had a back injury, and her father, Newman Benoit, 38, was hospitalized with a fractured collar bone.

A half dozen other persons were treated for minor injuries. Richard Plater Jr., civil defense director, said the tornado, which appeared to be rotating hit during a heavy rain.

In its path, 300 to 400 feet wide and a mile long, the farm cottages "just sort of exploded," Plater said.

Plater estimated the damage to farm dwellings at about $75,000.

he tried twice unsuccessfully to hire someone who could follow Mrs. Finch in hopes of "getting something on her."

Finally, he said, he and Carole Trefegor — his medical secretary, then his paramour — found someone they thought could "do the job."

The doctor testified that Carole said Jack Cody told her that he'd get the information for us "if he had to sleep with her himself and then go to court and testify."

Jack Cody testified for the state that Carole and Finch hired him not as a gigolo but as a murderer—to kill Mrs. Finch. He said he took money but had no intention of murdering her.

But Finch firmly denied the charge for which he is on trial for his life. That he plotted to kill Mrs. Finch so he wouldn't have to share with her community property she estimated at three-quarters of a million dollars.

Finch's attorneys said the doctor will explain that Mrs. Finch, 38, suffered injuries struggling with her estranged mate for a pistol—and that she was shot to death accidentally.

Finch didn't get to that part of his story Thursday, his second day on the stand. He told how his love for his wife dwindled after she became sexually frigid—and how he became enamored of the 23-year-old Carole after he and his wife reached an "amicable" understanding which he was free to come and go as he pleased.

Finch admitted candidly that he fought a delaying action against his wife's move for a divorce, even though he didn't want to remain permanently married to her. He said he was afraid a divorce would adversely affect his credit rating at a time when he and associates were planning to build a hospital.

Missile Teams Successful in Doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
U.S. missile teams, busy on both coasts, recorded a successful doubleheader at Cape Canaveral and a delayed fizzle at Vandenberg Air Force Base Thursday.

The Discoverer IX satellite rocket left its pad at Vandenberg in fine form. But Air Force officers at the California installation announced later that the rocket failed to achieve orbital velocity. They said they lacked information on whether the second stage separated from the first. After failing to reach orbital speed, the rocket fell back into the earth's atmosphere.

In the two successful firings at the Florida cape, a Jupiter roared aloft on a final 1,500-mile test flight and a Polaris recorded its fifth straight hit on an Atlantic target 900 miles away.

The 28-foot Polaris, trailing the characteristic plume of white smoke from its solid-fuel engine, went first.

Two hours later, a 60-foot Jupiter blazed across the sky. The Army later said the shot was successful and added that the test series for the liquid-fueled giant had been completed four months ahead of time.

The Navy announced the success of the Polaris, which is slated to become standard equipment on nuclear submarines in the not-too-distant future.

While the Air Force was launching the Discoverer at Vandenberg, Sandia Corp. scientists were firing a high-altitude rocket probe 30 miles down the California coast at the Navy's Point Arguello missile facility.

The Navy said attempts to recover the 250-pound payload were abandoned Thursday because of rough seas and low visibility.

Burns Fatal to Hamburg Woman

These Countenances

Upon the shoulders of these mighty men fell responsibility when America had to have guidance. Character is the common mark that distinguishes each face. February is the month that gave them to us. Of course, they were humble, profound men and their words are the golden threads which hold our Democratic system of government together. True Godliness, firm statesmanship and real Americanism is written over their badges. They are the firm, steady Fathers of the greatest country on earth... America. These stalwarts provided the sort of leadership all Americans honor and to which they claim to be heirs. Here are three symbols of the faith, vision, and forbearance that made our country great... they are Washington, Lincoln, and Lee. Then citizens, arise and be proud. Attend church and worship God. Thank Him for These Countenances and for every blessing we have in Free America.
